Duty of Care
Bullying Prevention Series Roles and Responsibilities for Supervisors & Managers

00:15 NARRATOR: Our workplace today is a complex web of interactions and reactions. We spend many hours in environments where things move at a rapid pace. Successful working relationships, like personal relationships, require hard work, commitment, and sound methods of communication.

00:35 UNKNOWN: As a supervisor or manager, you have a legal duty to monitor and control occupational health and safety issues in the workplace. Most of you will be aware of the obvious hazards that may exist in your workplace as well as the well-known policy of hazard identification, analysis, and risk control. But there are many other, not-so-obvious, risks to health and safety in the workplace that may not only affect and injure people in a physical sense but also psychologically.

01:00 Workplace Bullying Your Legal Duty of Care
NARRATOR: Workplace bullying is such a risk, and as a supervisor or manager, it is your legal responsibility to ensure that everyone understands that bullying behavior will not be tolerated.

01:20 NARRATOR: Be under no misapprehension, workplace bullying is an enormous occupational health and safety problem, and the cost to business generally runs into billions of dollars each year. Ask an employer whether bullying exists in their workplace, and this is what they will probably say.

01:40 UNKNOWN: No, no. We don't have that problem here.
